Wonderful owner-occupied property or investment opportunity! This beautiful piece of Kingston history is steps away from Kingston's Uptown Stockade District's restaurants, shops and Farmer's Market as well as Forsyth Park and Trailways Bus Station. Originally a single-family home, the Federal-style property was converted into a six-unit apartment building in the 1960s. This white brick building features long windows, a slate roof and a back stairwell leading to a basement with storage for each unit. Many original details from the conversion remain in the home, including hardwood flooring, vintage kitchen amenities and bathrooms, and an antique mailbox in the main foyer. Outside, the private backyard makes for an inviting communal space for residents to picnic and garden and is home to a beautiful white brick 2-story barn set back on the property. The barn can be converted into a living/work space. Street parking. Owner pays heat and water. Tenant pays electric. Owner and broker are aware this is an Emergency Tenant Protection Act property. It is the buyer and/or buyer's agent responsibility to do own due diligence regarding ETPA. Great property to facilitate a comfortable owner-occupied unit. As per the ETPA guidelines, it may be possible to have the owner occupied unit removed from ETPA guidelines. As per the city zoning, this property does allow for first floor commercial space. This could potentially exempt the first floor from ETPA. NYSAR has a free legal hotline for real estate agents: 518-436-9727
