A stunning c1863 brick Italianate on a quiet block in the sought after Rondout neighborhood of Kingston. Originally built as a parsonage, the stunning facade has deep, bracketed eaves, and the two-over-two windows are crowned with projecting arches. The covered front porch looks out over the quiet street, lined with stunning of the same era — a lovely neighborhood with significant architecture. Inside, the home has retained much of its original charm with soaring 11 foot ceilings, six decorative fireplaces and gorgeous wide board floors. The kitchen has been completely reimagined with modern lines alongside historic elements. You'll find the old hearth currently used to house a pizza oven, under-counter wine storage and a 48" AGA induction range. The space is large and was designed with entertaining in mind, with two refrigerators and a large center island. The living room is wonderfully spacious with big windows and an original marble mantel, the dining room sits adjacent which has wonderful flow, and you'll find a family room & two baths on the first floor. Upstairs, there are four bedrooms. All have fireplaces & each is painted it's own iconic hue of earthy & playful tones. The bathrooms are spa-like. The primary suite is especially luxe with a sunken, circular soaking tub & separate shower. There is central AC and smart controls. Out back, a beautiful iron fence lines the yard, it is wonderfully private, exceptionally large, and quite lush with plants in the warm months. Sit in the shade under the beautiful cherry trees, or lounge under the pergola overlooking the fountain. There is off street parking & a one-car garage, and a 3m walk takes you to the waterfront & the incredible restaurants that have made Kingston a dining destination. The house can be available completely turn key, the furnishings are available for purchase. 85 Wurts is exceptionally beautiful, a classic piece of Hudson Valley architecture. Just 2h north of NYC.
