On a quiet country road just 90min north of NYC, this pre-revolutionary home was built as early as 1740, almost three hundred years ago. Impeccably restored with the upmost attention to detail and history, the walls are coated in raw plaster and a fabulous collection of antiques furnish the house. In the kitchen the ceiling is vaulted and the new limestone tile floors are heated. At the far end, custom steel powder coated doors with gorgeous, heavy polished nickel hardware open onto a patio & overlook the pond. Back inside, a darling pantry has been carved out in the corner, the custom millwork is beautifully done. Pass into the older section of the home through large openings made in the thick stone walls and you'll find a dining room with large exposed beams in the ceiling and a woodburning stove in the large living room. There are two wings of the upstairs, accessed via separate stairs. The primary occupies one, the bedroom is built into the eaves and large dormer windows allow beautiful light into the room. The primary bathroom is gorgeous with a separate shower and soaking tub and jack and jill sinks. All of the hardware in the home is Waterworks. The other wing has three guest rooms and a stunning full bath with marble floors. The house is fully electric with new high end equipment, you've got central air and an induction range. 401 Buck Road is done in perfect taste, it is very well dialed in & a rare bird in this market.
