Nestled on a quiet dead-end road yet less than 10 minutes from Rhinebeck, this move-in ready home awaits its next chapter. Recent updates to the infrastructure, including a whole-house generator and mini-splits for cooling, mean the heavy lifting is done and the next owners are free to add their own personal touches at their own pace. The layout flows intuitively from the living room to the kitchen, which features a large breakfast bar and dining area. Just off the dining area is a sun room with beamed cathedral ceilings, a wood stove, and large windows on three sides, creating the perfect spot to cozy up with a book during a snowstorm or stare out into the lush greenery beyond. Three generously sized bedrooms and a full bathroom round out this level for easy, single-floor living. Downstairs, a large den with its own brick fireplace offers flexible space for an office, media room, or playroom, and sliding doors open onto a covered deck, a private perch for morning coffee or evening stargazing. A large laundry room with ample storage and interior access to the garage complete the lower level. With larger parcels surrounding the property, the land offers more privacy than a typical lot of this size, creating a peaceful sanctuary for humans and wildlife alike, often visited by wild turkeys and other beautiful creatures. The Rhinecliff Amtrak station is just minutes away, putting NYC under two hours door to door.
