This lovingly cared for 1920's Sears Kit- type craftsman home and detached studio, sits back on a deep lot with over two acres of mature perennials, ornamental and fruit trees, meadows, and wooded areas. Formerly the home and art studio of renowned ceramicist Josepheh Triplo, this property is three minutes from the heart of Stone Ridge, and it is located within the B2 business district. The property has a curb cut, lighted sign kiosk, and ample parking. Conveniently located on Route 209, the property's positioning provides the rare combination of exposure and seclusion. The main residence's sun-lit living space is located on one level with 9' ceilings. It has a circular floor plan, and multiple communal areas. Numerous well thought-out upgrades have been made, and many of the home's beautiful original architectural details, such as the wooden floors, windows, wooden paneled doors with glass knobs and skeleton keys have been carefully preserved. The heart of the home is the large sunny kitchen. It includes handmade porcelain tile flooring, custom cabinets, granite counters, a gas range, and four large windows above the oversized cast iron sink all overlooking the patio and garden. The spacious dining room can accommodate a large dining table, and it includes a woodstove and seating area. To one side of the dining room there is a dreamy sunroom addition with eight windows. This room is currently set up with a daybed, with its glass paneled door it is a room where one can go to read, watch TV, or to use as a private home office. On the other side of the dining room is a wide entry into a spacious and sunny living room, and the front door leads out to a front porch. There are doors in the kitchen and living room to separate the bedrooms from the rest of the house. The primary bedroom has windows on two walls overlooking the backyard. Adjacent is a full bathroom with a cast iron tub. Down the hall there is a quiet guest bedroom. Also within the home there is a spacious unfinished basement and attic. The detached studio is fully renovated and has a kitchenette, a washer/dryer, and a full bath, ample electric, and its own septic. It has south facing double glass doors and windows allowing plenty of sunshine in. Its design creates the impression of distinct areas for office, dining, conversation, and sleep. Located close to everything the Hudson Valley and Catskills have to offer, and just a few minutes to farm stands, Inness, Arrowood, Cherries, SUNY Ulster, as well as restaurants, markets and shops in Stone Ridge and High Falls. Under 20 minutes to Kingston's Stockade District, and New Paltz, and 30 minutes to Woodstock, Rhinebeck and Amtrak. Under two hours by car from NYC.
