This remarkably charming "Painted Lady" Victorian Farmhouse in the heart of Stone Ridge is filled with character, history, and opportunity. Built in 1890, and thoughtfully restored this house is a rare blend of character and modern livability. Its restoration was approached with an artist's eye, respectful of the home's original craftsmanship, carefully revealing and preserving the unique woodwork, trim, and architectural details that had been hidden over generations. From the moment you walk through the front entrance, one is greeted by the original double front doors and stained glass transom window, original wide plank flooring that showcase the home's authentic historic character and make it truly one of a kind. Throughout the house, thoughtful updates provide the comfort expected today while honoring the integrity of its 19th century architecture. Every room reflects years of careful stewardship and attention to detail. At the heart of the home is a bright, open kitchen and living space designed for gathering-a seamless balance between contemporary function and timeless charm. Sun drenched natural light fills the room from large southern facing and backyard windows The apron sink, gas stove, vintage light fixtures and bead board detailing make the farmhouse kitchen an inviting hub. The spacious fully renovated bath houses an extra large soaking slipper clawfoot tub framed by a custom window towards the private backyard, creating a quiet retreat that feels both luxurious and true to the home's Victorian roots. The original staircase leads to 2 adjoining bedrooms upstairs and a full bath with roomy walk-in shower and vintage porcelain corner sink. The unique floor plan offers flexibility for a variety of living arrangements. The original north facing porch has been converted into a third bedroom and laundry room. With its separate entrance and mixed use zoning (B1), this bedroom, as well as the adjoining front room could also be used for a home-based business. The extremely useful double garage has one side for a car and the other for storage, a studio or shop. Located just down the street from the main activity of downtown Stone Ridge, this property offers the convenience of community events and amenities while maintaining the timeless appeal of small town living. Whether you're searching for a distinctive single family residence, an investment opportunity, or a commercial or hospitality business, this home offers endless possibilities. This is more than a beautifully restored farmhouse-its a home with soul, ready for its next chapter: yours.
