Year Built:	1957

Tucked into a peaceful hillside setting on four private acres, 133 White Schoolhouse Lane offers a quiet Rhinebeck retreat surrounded by the natural beauty of the Hudson Valley. Thoughtfully designed for privacy and comfort, the home balances open, connected living spaces with more traditional rooms that create warmth, separation, and flexibility. The layout feels both inviting and practical, with generous natural light, beautiful hardwood floors, and an easy flow between living and gathering spaces. A three-season sunroom creates a seamless connection to the outdoors and offers the perfect place to relax and take in the surrounding landscape from spring through fall. The attached two-car garage adds everyday convenience and ample storage, while the expansive acreage provides plenty of room to garden, entertain, explore, or simply enjoy the tranquility of nature. Recent upgrades include central air conditioning and a whole-house generator, bringing modern comfort and added peace of mind throughout the seasons. Private yet accessible, 133 White Schoolhouse Lane offers the best of Hudson Valley living—a comfortable, flexible home surrounded by nature, just a short drive from the shops, restaurants, and charm of Rhinebeck. Just 90 minutes from the George Washington Bridge, 133 White Schoolhouse Lane offers an easy escape to the heart of the Hudson Valley. The property is only minutes from the Village of Rhinebeck, where favorite spots like Pretty to Think So, The Little Goat, Le Petit Bistro, and RhineCellar are joined by independent shops, farmers markets, and year-round cultural offerings. For added convenience, the nearby Rhinecliff Amtrak station provides direct service to Manhattan, making the home equally well suited for weekend retreats or full-time Hudson Valley living.
