A New York State of Mind Experience this design-forward Hudson Valley Micro-Retreat in Kingston's Historic Waterfront District. Flexible ownership opportunity suitable for investment, full-time, or part-time use. Located in Kingston's historic waterfront district, this property sits within one of the Hudson Valley's most walkable and culturally layered neighborhoods. Originally shaped by 19th-century maritime trade and the Delaware & Hudson Canal, the Rondout area was once a vital shipping hub connecting river and rail. That legacy remains visible today in the scale, character, and working waterfront atmosphere that define the district. Now reimagined as one of Kingston's most dynamic enclaves, the neighborhood offers proximity to Rondout Marina, boat tours, Kingston Point Beach, waterfront dining, and direct access to the Empire State Trail. • Morning coffee by the water. • Afternoon swim at Kingston Point. • Evening cocktails overlooking the marina. • Weekend sailing, hiking, bird watching or art openings -- all within reach. Set against the same dramatic landscape that inspired the Hudson River School painters, Kingston continues to evolve as a vibrant center for arts and design.
