Four bedroom and three full baths on a peaceful country road in Stone Ridge. This turnkey midcentury home is a modern homage to 1970s design, pairing warmth and character with an extensive, carefully considered renovation. The floor plan is generous and exceptionally flexible, with three well-proportioned bedrooms plus a fourth slightly smaller room currently styled as an office, two distinct living rooms and ample storage. Upstairs, the living room is anchored by new wood burning stove, while the chefs kitchen balances clean modern design with everyday function. Highlights include an induction range, stainless-steel island, hidden drawers within drawers and custom shelving. All three fully renovated full bathrooms feature Kohler fixtures throughout. The bright, above-grade lower level has been finished with the same attention as the main floor, including new windows and durable, eco-friendly Forbo flooring. Here, a spacious family room with fireplace is joined by a large room with a closet, a beautifully designed full bath with walk-in shower, and a dedicated laundry area. The layout readily accommodates guests, a home office, creative space or multigenerational living. The renovation extends well beyond the interiors. Updates include new construction Pella Lifestyle windows and sliding doors, premium fir panel siding with new exterior insulation, additional attic insulation, a new 200-amp electrical panel and service, new gutters and new garage doors. The house is fully electric and equipped with Mitsubishi ductless heating and cooling. Outside, a spacious new deck creates an easy setting for dining and gathering. A perennial front garden, broad front and back yards, and a corner-lot position provide breathing room and privacy. The freshly painted garage offers substantial additional space, while a large backyard shed is ready for storage, a workshop or hobbies. Set on a quiet neighborhood street near Marbletown Elementary, the house is minutes from the center of Stone Ridge and approximately 15 minutes from Kingston. Design-forward, functional and thoroughly renewed, 86 Pine Bush Road is ready to enjoy from day one.
